Star Against Hike in Millage Until Property Reassessed

Although some citizens may feel The Star is pursuing an obstructionist policy in opposing increases in the school tax millage we will maintain that stand, regardless, in the local school election March 9 when the Hope school district will ask that the present 45-mill tax rate be increased to 50 mills.

Our position is as simple as this: We will oppose all school-millage increase proposals until school authorities are finally compelled to do what they should have done all through the years—maintained an adequate assessment base.

When I came to Hope in 1929 there was an 18-mill ceiling on school taxation. The millage being limited school authorities had to work diligently to keep assessments up to a fair level. But the state abolished the 18-mill ceiling and millage swiftly advanced. In 1929 the rate was 18 mills, today it is 45—and trying for 50.

The same absurd situation exists generally in Arkansas—the small property-owner is hit continuously with millage hikes while little or nothing is done to reassess big holders who escape paying their fair share of the cost of public education.

They had school financial trouble back in 1929, too. The late Dr. Don Smith, who was president of the Hope board when I came here from El Dorado, told me:

"The millage goes up, the assessments go down—and the money comes out even."

But what was difficult under an 18-mill ceiling in 1929 became impossible in later years with an unlimited millage.

The Star's position—for a high assessment and a low millage—is endorsed by every informed school authority in America. Arkansas, unfortunately, lags behind the rest of America by inflating millage while paying no attention to the assessing base against which millage is levied. Therefore the public-school financial boat is slowly but inevitably sinking.

The school folks didn't put together a reassessment program last year.

Tell 'em "No" on a 50-mill tax March 9—and maybe they will get around to a reassessment program next year.

Some Gunfire Continues in Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Sporadic guntire continued in Kampala today, less than 24 hours after a faction in the army overthrew the government of President Milton Obote. There were unconfirmed reports of fighting 40 miles from the city.

Kampala's streets were crowded with pedestrians, and shops were open. Military vehicles loaded with troops patrolled nearby.

Radio Uganda, which reported Monday that Obote had been toppled by a military coup, carried no announcements from the new government today. It played mostly music, including such popular numbers as "Yes, We Have No Bananas" and "St. Louis Blues."

The coup was led by Brig. Gen. Idi Amin, commander of the nation's armed forces, and Police Inspector-General William Oryema, whose forces claimed victory after 12 hours of fighting with a rival faction of the armed forces. An undetermined number of persons were killed.

The coup was launched as Obote, 45, was preparing to fly home from the Commonwealth conference in Singapore, where he was one of the leading critics of British Prime Minister Edward Heath's plans to sell arms to South Africa. A few hours after the army announced his overthrow, he arrived in Nairobi.

Diplomatic observers in Kampala said they could not judge yet whether there was enough pro-Obote sentiment to support a comeback attempt.

Russia Claims Venus Shot Successful

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today that its Venus 7 spacecraft—which hurtled into Venus' hellish atmosphere Dec. 15—made a soft landing on the planet and transmitted data for 23 minutes.

"For the first time," the Soviet news agency Tass said, "scientific information was relayed from the surface of another planet of the solar system."

The atmospheric conditions on the surface of the planet at Venus 7's landing site, Tass said, were a temperature of 875 degrees Fahrenheit, plus or minus 68 degrees, and a pressure of about 90 times that on the surface of the earth, plus or minus 15 atmospheres.

The announcement was the first detailed information released by the Soviet government on the Venus experiment.

On the day Venus 7 plunged into the Venusian atmosphere, Tass said it ceased functioning after 35 minutes, leading Western space specialists to believe the craft had been crushed like eggshells in the planet's dense atmosphere.

Fair, Cold Forecast for State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Arkansas forecast calls for fair skies and cold weather through Wednesday.

A cold front moved into the northern portion of the state this morning and was to have crossed the remainder of the state by this afternoon.

Lows tonight should be in the teens north and 20s to low 30s south. Temperatures this morning were in the 30s and 40s.

Temperatures climbed into the 60s across much of the state Monday and highs today were forecast in the 50s except in the southwest where readings in the 60s were expected. Highs Wednesday should be in the mid and upper 30s northeast to upper 50s and low 60s extreme southwest.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 34, Harrison 36, Jonesboro 41, Pine Bluff 41, Texarkana 40, El Dorado 35, Memphis 39, Little Rock 36 and Fort Smith 36.

Rainfall reports for the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m. include a trace at Pine Bluff, El Dorado and Little Rock and .01 at Memphis.

Being Bill Collector Not Easy With Some of Remarks They Hear

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a bill collector gets tired of hearing:

"You can't get blood out of a turnip."

"Janus, you wouldn't have me thrown out on the street, would you? After all, I'm your own mother."

"If Janus ever needed a heart transplant, all they'd have to put in would be a large rock."

"If I could afford to pay what I owe, Janus, do you think I'd be here? No, I'd be down in Miami Beach like the rich bums."

"It's my husband who owes you the money, not me. But if you catch up with him I'll pay you $10 extra if you beat him up."

"It's my wife who owes you the money, not me. If you are foolish enough to let her buy things on credit, that's your lookout."

"You can't get blood out of a turnip."

"I know I borrowed the money to go on my vacation, but I didn't have much fun on my vacation—so why should I have to pay it all back? That doesn't make sense to me."

"Here's half the dough I owe on last month's instalment, Janus. How about matching for it—double or nothing?"

"So, go ahead and try to sic the sheriff on me. He happens to be a lodge brother of mine."

"You can't get blood out of a turnip."

"How can you sleep at night, Janus, after pestering poor people all day long the way you do?"

"I'll make a deal with you, Janus. I'll pay the instalment that's due on the electric stove, if you'll get the store to sell me a new refrigerator on time."

"Have you got the nerve to stand there and tell me I still have to pay for that car when I already wrecked it three months ago?"

"Go ahead and sue me. You can't get blood out of a turnip!"

House Bill Restricts Holding Companies to One Already Formed

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House approved a bill Monday that would prohibit the growth of multibank holding companies in Arkansas.

The bill, passed on a vote of 75-13, would restrict the number of holding companies in the state to the one already formed by the First Arkansas Bankstock Corp. (FABCO) of Little Rock. Sponsors of the measure said FABCO would be limited to its present size.

The bill, which has divided the state's bankers, ran into immediate trouble after its transmittal to the Senate late Monday. Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs objected to the routine second reading of the proposal, delaying its progress by one day.

The Senate Finance and Banking Committee earlier in the day had recommended pas-

No Progress With Ecuador on Fish Boats

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Private negotiations between the United States and Ecuador over fishing rights have collapsed, raising the prospect of a serious deterioration in relations between the two countries, diplomatic sources reported.

Talks were held Monday between Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Ecuadoran foreign minister Jose Maria Ponce Yepes to reach an agreement which would end the wave of seizures of American fishing vessels off Ecuador's coast. Twelve have been reported since Jan. 11.

Last Monday, the United States suspended military sales to Ecuador, threatening to take economic reprisals if the seizures continued.

Ponce Yepes, here for an Organization of American States meeting, was promised by Rogers Monday that sanctions would be lifted if Ecuador stopped seizing American vessels, the diplomatic sources said.

The talks broke down after Ponce Yepes told Rogers the ship seizures would stop only if tuna boats stayed away from what Ecuador regards as it territorial waters.

Ecuador claims jurisdiction over 200 miles from its coast while the United States says all waters beyond 12 miles are international territory.

Ecuador has said it permits foreign vessels to operate within the 200-mile limit provided they obtain the proper documents.

The diplomatic sources said Ponce Yepes was considering a call for a special meeting of the OAS to charge the U.S. with violating the OAS charter.

For the OAS to hold a special session, a majority of the 24 member states would have to vote for the Ecuadoran motion.

Filibuster Likely Over Rules Change

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew dealt a blow today to the hopes of senators urging a change in the Senate's rules to make it easier to shut off filibusters.

He announced he will submit to the Senate for decision any questions involving the constitutionality of procedures in the fight over the filibuster rule.

The effect is to make these issues subject to debate which can be cut off only by a two-thirds majority of senators voting.

The position taken by Agnew is in line with what Presidents Richard Nixon and Lyndon B. Johnson when they were presiding over the Senate as vice president.

Agnew set out the course he will follow in the rule fight in response to a question by Sen. James B. Allan, D-Ala., one of the Southern Democrats who have organized to resist any change in the filibuster rule.

Two years ago, in a similar opening session fight over the rule, Hubert H. Humphrey was vice president and made a precedent-shattering ruling that at the start of a new Congress the Senate had a constitutional right to shut off debate by a simple majority vote.

But an appeal was taken from Humphrey's ruling and the Senate, by a 53-45 vote, refused to sustain him.

As the battle got under way at Tuesday's session, Agnew said: "In response to any point of order as to the constitutionality of the procedure or as to whether or not the Senate is a continuing body which involves a constitutional question, the chair, under the uniform precedents of the Senate, will submit the same to the Senate for decision."

The goal of a bipartisan group led by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., is to halt debates by a three-fifths vote rather than the two-thirds majority now required.

Sources Say Guinea Has Executed Four

PARIS (AP) — Sources in Guinea reported by telephone today that four of the 58 persons awaiting execution for plotting to overthrow President Sekou Toure have been hanged in Conakry, the Guinean capital.

All four had been leading officials of Toure's government.

The sources discounted reports that all 58 of the condemned persons had been executed at various places in the West African country. The sources said there had been no indication of any hangings outside Conakry.

In addition to the 58 under arrest in Conakry who were sentenced to death Sunday, another 34 were condemned to death in absentia and 66 defendants were given life imprisonment.

The sources in Conakry said four persons were hanged between 5 and 5:30 a.m. Monday on a bridge on a main street in the capital. The sources said they were Balde Ousmane, former secretary of state for planning; Ibrahima Barry, also known as Barry Trois, former secretary of state for finance; Keita Kara, former commissioner of police, and Makassouba Mouriba, former director of national security.

Tet Ceasefire Doesn't Apply to Cambodia

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese and American forces tonight joined the Viet Cong and the North Vietnames in a cease-fire in South Vietnam marking Tet, the festival of the lunar new year. The Saigon government began the Year of the Boar with a proposal that all sick and wounded prisoners of war be freed by both sides.

There was no cease-fire in Cambodia, and Cambodian troops fought off attacks on three positions 18 to 28 miles northwest, southeast and south of Phnom Penh. Phnom Penh itself, under all night curfew because of a wave of terrorist attacks, was free from attack after four days of fighting, and the airport was open to commercial traffic for the first time since it was attacked last Friday.

U.S. and South Vietnamese headquarters said their forces suspended combat operations at 6 p.m. Saigon time—5 a.m. EST for 24 hours, although U.S. air strikes against North Vietnamese troops and supply routes in Laos and Cambodia continued.

The Viet Cong had announced a four-day cease-fire beginning 17 hours ahead of the allied truce. But the Saigon government charged that the enemy had violated their own cease-fire at least four times in the first few hours.

The U.S. Command reported no attacks on American units during the same period.

Announcing Saigon's new proposal for the release of prisoners, Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam said his government "proposes to release all sick and wounded prisoners of war now being held in South Vietnam who express a desire to be released to the North. In this humane spirit, the government of the Republic of Vietnam proposes that the other side release immediately all sick and wounded Vietnamese and allied prisoners of war."

Lam said South Vietnam holds 2,080 sick and wounded POWs, including 1,267 Viet Cong, 783 North Vietnamese and 30 "special cases," South Vietnamese who went to the North for training and returned to North Vietnamese units in the South.

He said it was not known how many sick and wounded prisoners North Vietnam holds because "they don't say."

Lam said that even if North Vietnam does not respond, the Saigon government is "quite ready to release those people to the North." He indicated this would be done in groups, as in the past, but gave no timetable.

The foreign minister said 226 sick and wounded North Vietnamese prisoners had been repatriated since Jan. 30, 1966, including 37 two days ago.

The proposal today was the third for a major exchange of prisoners made by South Vietnam in four months. On Oct. 8, The Communists rejected both earlier proposals.

Venezuela Air Crash May Claim 18

MERIDA, Venezuela (AP) — Eighteen persons are feared dead in the crash of a Venezuelan airliner in the Andes.

The Viscount turboprop, carrying 42 passengers and a crew of six, crashed into the Cruces de Daji Mountain in western Venezuela Monday eight minutes after taking off from Merida on a 420-mile flight to Caracas.

Rescuers had located 30 survivors by Monday night.

The plane did not catch fire, and a survivor walked two miles to a military airport to report the crash. Army and police teams and medical personnel went to the site and set up treatment stations, and helicopters were brought in to fly out the injured.

Jury to Decide Life or Death for Manson, 3 Women Followers

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury that convicted Charles Manson and three devoted women followers in the bizarre Sharon Tate murders meets Thursday to consider the penalty: death or life imprisonment.

The state said it would demand death in the gas chamber.

The penalty trial, required by California law, will bring new testimony and the chance to recall witnesses heard during the trial's seven months.

The chief prosecutor, Asst. Dist. Atty. Vincent Bugliosi, said he had 50 witnesses ready, but that the penalty trial could be short, indicating he would not call them all.

The defense, which called no witnesses during the trial said it would put on a case as long as or longer than the state's, seeking to persuade the jurors to decree life imprisonment. Expected witnesses include family and friends of the defendants who will testify to their character.

Two Nations See Deal With Oil Firms

By PARVIS RAEIN
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The oil ministers of Venezuela and Libya predict they will come to terms with the Western oil companies. But the Libyan says his government is prepared to shut down its wells if it doesn't get the increased revenues it is demanding.

"We lived without oil for 5,000 years, and we can live without it again," Ezzedin Mabruk told newsmen Monday. "Either we get our rights or we live without oil."

The world's fifth largest producer of petroleum, Libya collects $1.4 billion a year from an annual yield of 1.5 billion barrels. U.S. companies produce 90 per cent of this for marketing in Western Europe.

Talks began last Tuesday between the companies and oil ministers of Iran, Iraq and Saudi Arabia, representing the Persian Gulf members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. The others are Kuwait, Abu Dhabi and Qatar, while Indonesia, Algeria, Libya and Venezuela complete the OPEC.

Libya has been negotiating separately and is the most aggressive of the 10 members. It negotiated a 30-cent increase

IRS Assesses Couple $31,960 as Wager Tax

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has assessed $31,960 in wagering taxes against Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ralph Burton of Jonesboro in connection with a lottery allegedly operated for profit by the Burtons during the baseball seasons of 1963-1966.

The amount was listed in a tax lien filed by the IRS against the Burton's property in the Craighead County circuit clerk's office at Jonesboro.

Burton, business manager of Local 431 of the Plumbers, Steamfitters and Pipefitters Union, allegedly accepted bets during the four-year period totaling $319,608.

Persons who are in the business of accepting bets on sporting events and other contests are required by federal law to register with the IRS and to pay a 10 per cent wagering tax on their gross receipts.

Nixon Wants Action on 40 Old Bills

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his first special message of 1971, President Nixon today called for early enactment of 40 bills originally submitted last year. He noted some "have been modified to meet legitimate concerns expressed by members of the Congress."

The proposals cover a wide variety of problem areas, ranging from aid to school districts facing desegregation problems to recommended increases in airline faires to help finance anthijacking programs.

Nixon said his initial request of the new year "is that the unfinished business of the 91st Congress be made the first business of the 92nd." He said:

"I believe that the items of unfinished business I propose today merit the prompt and careful consideration of the Congress. I believe they are good measures, I believe they are wise proposals. I believe they are necessary legislation. I urge the Congress to act favorably upon them."

Under the desegregation aid program, firsl sbmitted last May 21, school districts would receive $1.5 billion by mid-1972 to help meet the costs of implementing desegregation plans or in eliminating or easing racial isolation in the classrooms.

The antihijacking revenue measure would add one-half of one per cent to the present 8 per cent federal tax on airline passenger tickets and would boost from $3 to $5 the departure tax on all international flights.

He also called anew for a substantial increase in annual use taxes paid by large trucks and would raise the federal tax on deisel fuel to 6 cents a gallon from 4 cents.

Most of the legislation will go to Congress promptly, Nixon said, but some will be delayed.

Among many other retread recommendations, some would crack down on obscenity and pornography, create a new national institute of education and strengthen the hand of authorities who must deal with sit-ins or other demonstrations in government offices.

One of Nixon's proposals, he said, was "thoroughly in keeping with the Nixon administration's unprecedented revenue sharing proposals contained in my State of review and concurrence, to consolidate federal grant programs in related areas.

JURY TO

Fitzgerald said he would try to show that there was still doubt as to the defendants' guilt despite Monday's verdicts.

"A verdict of first-degree murder means the jury has determined guilt beyond a reasonable doubt," said Fitzgerald, "but not beyond any doubt at all."

The verdicts, he said, were expected, and the defendants were somewhat resigned, which explained their decorous behavior Monday, contrasting sharply with emotional outbursts earlier in the trial.

Manson, 36, shaggy-haired chieftain of a wandering hippie-type tribe, still managed to get in a punchline after all verdicts were read.

"I think they'll all guilty," he said of the jurors, then shouted at Judge Charles H. Older, "We're still not allowed to put on a defense! You won't outlive that, old man!" Counsel for the accused declined to let the women take the stand for fear they would incrimate themselves trying to clear Manson.

As the jury prepared to deliver its verdict after 42 hours and 40 minutes of deliberation spread over more than eight days, the three women, Susan Atkins, 22, Leslie Van Houten, 21, and Patricia Krenwinkel, 23, shuffled into court smiling and chatting among themselves.

Pale and thin, they wore drab jail uniforms and ribbons in their long hair. They sat whispering through the reading of the verdicts, and, as the jury was led out, a prosecutor heard Miss Van Houten say, "Look how sad they all look."

The three women smiled at cameramen in the courthouse corridor after the verdict, but guards in the jail said they wept for more than an hour in their cells. Manson still appeared unruffled by the verdict after his return to jail.

The defendants were charged with 27 counts of murder-conspiracy in the August 1969 slaying of the blonde, pregnant actress and four visitors to her hilltop mansion, and in the killings a night later of a wealthy market owner and his wife.

The state said Manson ordered the killings in hopes of triggering a race war he felt was predicted in a Beatles song, and that after the war Manson expected to take control of the world.

The women obeyed Manson's every command in robot-like fashion, including his orders to kill, the state contended.

Welfare, Parks Agency Heads Have Resigned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The heads of two state agencies, both appointed by former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, submitted their resignations Monday to Gov. Dale Bumpers.

Len E. Blaylock, director of the state Welfare Department, said he was resigning to take a job with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Ray G. Cooper, director of the state Parks, Recreation and Travel Commission, however, said that his resignation was requested by the Bumpers administration.

Blaylock said that the resignation was his idea and that Bumpers had not asked for it. His resignation is effective in March.

Blaylock said he had planned to leave the department for some time and he felt that "my continued presence here might have an adverse effect on his (Bumpers') legislative proposals."

Blaylock said that a partial reason for his resignation was that Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway had said he planned to hold up the department's budget because Blaylock has referred to a bill by Sen. Virgil Fletcher of Benton as "baloney." The Fletcher bill would repeal the requirements for child-care facilities in the state to obtain a license through the Welfare Department. Blaylock supports the present licensing law.

G. F. Dalton Jennings, 47, may be in line for Blaylock's position. Jennings was appointed by Rockefeller as assistant welfare director at Bumpers' request Dec. 30.

Rockefeller's announcement said that Jennings was appointed at the request of Bumpers so the new administration would have a representative in a key position in the welfare department.

Cooper submitted his resignation, effective Feb. 15, to Jimmy Driftwood of Timbo, commission chairman.

In the letter, Cooper told Driftwood that he had offered to resign after Gov. Dale Bumpers was elected but had been asked to remain in the position until last Friday when the resignation was requested.

last October, raising the base price to $2.53 a barrel, and this went up two cents on Jan. 1. Sources in Tripoli report that the Libyan government is demanding a further increase in the posted price, plus a surcharge of more than 70 cents a barrel and a tax increase from 58 per cent to 63 per cent.

Since Col. Muammar Kadafi led a coup d'etat on Sept. 1, 1969, he has often used Libya's oil fields as a foreign policy weapon.

Now the OPEC members are threatening unified drastic action if their demands for higher prices and tax increases are not met, including a possible boycott of the companies. They produce about 85 per cent of the world's oil outside the United States and the Soviet Union, most of it for Japan and Western Europe.

The companies want an agreement to cover all OPEC members, but Mabruk and Perez La Salvia of Venezuela said their governments would not be bound to any accord from the Persian Gulf discussions. They met with representatives of Iran and Algeria Monday, and official sources said tentative plans were drawn up for a separate round of talks to move agreement simultaneously with the gulf states toward agreement.

The producer nations contend regional agreements are fairer because production and distribution costs vary from region to region.

Mabruk said Libya never will accept an offer by the 16 companies for a five-year price agreement with annual adjustments to compensate for inflation. "We do not want to tie ourselves down or restrict our sovereignty," he said. But he added that he is "very optimistic—I think we are going to reach agreement."

La Salvia agreed. "I think the companies have understood the situation and are going to be reasonable," he said. "I think the negotiations here are going to be concluded successfully."

sage of an identical Senate version of the bill, but Sen. John F. Bearden Jr. of Leachville, a sponsor, had agreed to delay until Wednesday consideration of the proposal.

In other action Monday, the Senate approved a bill to broaden treatment at the Arkansas Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Booneville to include all chronic chest conditions and passed a measure to make the seller of an article liable for any defects in the article unless the buyer had accepted responsibility in a written statement.

The state's banking community has hotly debated whether bank holding companies should be outlawed since the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve Board approved FABCO's application last year to become Arkansas' first registered bank holding company.

FABCO now controls two banks — one at Little Rock and one at Hot Springs — and is negotiating to buy another at Stephens. Worthen Bank & Trust Co. of Little Rock is the "anchor" bank of the firm.

House supporters of the anti-holding bill argued that multi-bank companies would remove local control over local banks. Rep. Paul Henry of Batesville, sponsor of the measure, said it was likely that control of Arkansas banks would be held outside of the state if the legislature did not prohibit bank holding firms.

Rep. Sterlin Hurley of Clarksville, who said he had been in the banking business 47 years, said that within a few years a few holding companies could "control Arkansas politically and financially."

Reps. John B. Plegge and David R. Kane of Little Rock, said, however, that while the measure prevented partnerships and corporations from acquiring a number of banks, "very rich" individuals would not be restricted in their acquisitions.

Plegge said one such individual was Herbert McAdams of Jonesboro, who has controlling interest in four banks, including Union National Bank in Little Rock, the state's third largest bank.

The Senate approved the sanatorium bill on a vote of 27-1. Sen. Gene Rainwater of Fort Smith, the sponsor, said no additional state funds would be required this year to permit the sanatorium to treat chest conditions other than tuberculosis.

But Sen. Morrell Gathright of Pine Bluff said expanding the treatment program would mean that more money would be needed eventually. The sanatorium currently operates on about $1.5 million a year.

Gathright said the sanatorium was the most "over-facilitied" institution in the state and that a study should be made to determine its best use.

"It's obvious that its future does not lie in the treatment of tuberculosis," the senator said.

A number of figures of the state Tuberculosis Association and Medical Society have proposed phasing out the tuberculosis treatment program at the sanatorium.

The bill by Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway to add to the state's consumer protection law was approved 25-3, but Sen. Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff gave notice that he might ask for reconsideration within three days.

Jones said business under Arkansas law is now conducted under the concept, "Let the buyer beware." The consumer has the burden of making certain that goods he buys are of the quality he expects, Jones said.

Jones said the bill would "take the responsibility off the buyer and put it on the seller or manufacturer."

The House approved 87-0 and sent to the Senate the administration's bill to implement in Arkansas the 1970 federal law giving 18 year olds the right to vote in federal elections. The bill would reduce from a year to 30 days the residency requirement for voting for president in Arkansas.

The House passed 86-7 an administration proposal to create a Public Building Authority, which Gov. Dale Bumpers wants created to construct an office building in the Capitol complex to house state agencies that are paying more than $600,000 a year to rent space in other buildings.

The Senate approved on a vote of 22-8 a bill to permit the deposit of state funds in savings and loan associations doing business in the state.

The House defeated 42-48 a bill by Rep. George E. Nowotny Jr. of Fort Smith to make some changes in the procedures by which Arkansans renew their motor vehicle licenses by mail. Rep. Julian Streett of Camden, however, gave notice that he might seek reconsideration, keeping the bill alive momentarily.

Nowotny's bill would provide that licenses would expire in the birth month of the owner. It also would require that a motorist be given an extra copy of his property assessment form and personal property tax receipt, documents required to obtain licenses, to mail to the state Revenue Department with the license renewal form.

The House approved 51-35 a bill by Rep. Wayne Courtney of Forrest City to require a motorist to show proof that his vehicle had been inspected before he could obtain a license tag.

The representatives adopted a resolution that would create a committee to meet with creditors and officials of financially troubled Arkansas AM&N College before the legislature considers an appropriation bill to pay off a deficit incurred by the school.

Approved on a vote of 88-2 was a bill by Rep. Jesse Hayes of Pocahontas to permit servicemen, members of the Merchant Marines and other U.S. citizens living outside the country to vote in the state by absentee ballot without registering.

The House refused to consider Monday a resolution by Rep. N. B. "Nap" Murphy of Hamburg requesting Congress to withdraw U.S. troops from Vietnam. Murphy could not muster enough support to remove the resolution from committee so it could be considered.

Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock brought up Bumpers' governmental reorganization bill for amendments Monday, but pulled it down under repeated questioning by Jones. Howell said he would have copies of the amendments made and distributed to senators so they could become more familiar with the bill and the proposed changes.

The House passed the proposal last week and Bumpers has agreed to several amendments to make the measure more acceptable to the Senate. Other amendments also are expected to be offered.

Jones has drawn a proposed amendment to make Senate confirmation necessary for all department heads and board and commission members subject to confirmation under present law.

Howell plans to pose an amendment that would give the governor authority to reorganize individual agencies, subject to legislative confirmation, only to ensure state participation in federal programs.

The bill, as originally proposed, would permit such reorganization for efficiency and economy, as well as federal program participation.

Army Plans a New Type Division

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army plans to experiment with a new type division combining tanks and missile-equipped helicopters to counter Soviet armor in Europe.

The objective is to make maximum use of available speed, firepower and agility while reducing the size of the division.

A test division is expected to be formed at Ft. Hood, Tex., in late spring or early summer when the flag of the 1st Cavalry Division is returned there from Vietnam. At the same time, the 1st Armored Division at Ft. Hood would be dissolved and many of its men shifted to the new unit.

Army planners refer to the new experimental unit as TRICAP for "triple capable."

This refers to the division's prospective organization into armor, airmobile infantry and air cavalry brigades.

The TRICAP division would number a little more than 12,000 men, nearly 4,000 fewer than the present airmobile, mechanized, armored or infantry division and probably smaller than the 13,000-man 82nd Airborne Division.

The new concept is an outgrowth of a conviction expressed by key Army staff officers that divisions can be reduced in size while being improved in fighting effectiveness by using better ammunition, weapons and tanks.

U.S. Bases in Morocco Bring Pressure

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
associated Press Writer

RABAT, MKOROCCO (AP)—A crisis is developing for King Hassan II over the U.S. military bases in Morocco.

In the three months since Washington publicly admitted the existence of the bases, the pro-Western king has faced increasingly strong demands from opposition groups to put an end to the American military presence.

Other Arab leaders, particularly those of Algeria, Libya and Egypt, are putting heavy pressure on the king to break what they regard as a tacit alliance with the United States.

Hassan rules his semifeudal nation with a firm hand, but Western diplomats are wondering how much longer he can ride out the growing storm. He is to visit Washington in March or April, and some diplomats expect him to ask President Nixon to scale down the American military presence.

As far as the Moroccan government is concerned, the bases at Kenitra, Sidi Yahia and Bouknadel—all on the coastal plain north of Rabat—are "training facilities" of the Moroccan armed forces. The fact that the American military ran them has been an open secret in Morocco for years, but public criticism was barred under the state of emergency Hassan imposed in 1965.

A U.S. congressional hearing was told October that 1,700 American servicemen and military technicians operated the three bases despite a 1963 agreement under which all American military installations in Morocco were to close down.

The disclosure in Washington coincided with the king's decision to end the state of emergency and return to limited parliamentary rule. The two leading political parties, the leftist National Union of Popular Forces—UNFP—and the Istiqlal or Freedom party have formed a united front for the first time, and their main aim is to drive the Americans from the three bases.

A tract widely circulated by students charged that hydrogen bombs for the U.S. 6th Fleet are stored at Kenitra, exposing all Morocco to nuclear reprisals.

American officials have denied repeatedly that any nuclear weapons are kept at the three bases. But they are secretive about the purpose of the installations.

More Tests Scheduled for Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — More gastrointestinal X-rays were scheduled for Harry S. Truman today at Research Medical Center.

The former president's condition was upgraded from fair to good Monday.

Dr. Wallace Graham, attending physician, said Truman's ailment, colitis, was responding to treatment, his appetite was better and he was sleeping soundly.

"These tests can be quite tiring," said John Dreves, hospital spokesman. "Mr. Truman has been joking and kidding with the nurses and he is a good patient."

Mrs. Truman, who has spent each day with her husband since he entered the hospital Thursday, told newsmen as she started home Monday evening, "He's fine ... fine ... He's been sitting up today."

Symbol of Mercy

The sword "Curtana" was the blunted sword of the English king, Edward the Confessor. A symbol of mercy, it is carried in the coronation procession, before the kings of England, between the swords of justice temporal and justice spiritual.

In these days of the "total look," fashion and beauty can no longer be separated into categories. Each is part of the look chosen for any occasion. The two Pantene-inspired pretties shown here depict (left) the gamin spirit, gently placed sprites of hair, deceptively boyish, distinctly girlish—as free-spirited as the put-togethers pant attire of the season. The carefully coordinated accessories, bejeweled or be-banded, express the do-your-own thing mood. The more formal flutterer (right) was created from the latest love from Paris, the butterfly motif. Literally a winged-victory for fashion, this gently bouffant style will complement the romance in much of today's couture.

THE ALCOHOLIC FATHER

Dear Helen:

This isn't the usual "What Is A?"—but it's written from experience—and heartbreak:

WHAT IS AN ALCOHOLIC FATHER?

An alcoholic father is just like any other father except when he's drunk, which is 20 hours a day.

You love him, just like any child loves a father, except you can't tell him or anyone else because he hurts you so much, and the only way you can get even is by saying you hate him—which doesn't seem to matter to him, but it does to you.

An alcoholic father is someone who calls you filthy names and never knows how it hurts. But when you shout something back, your heart tears apart because you hate fighting with him.

He's someone you're so ashamed of that when your friends ask to come over and play records you make all kinds of fake excuses, which they pretend to believe, and that hurts all the more.

He's the man who breaks things and yells so loud that you take your little brother next door so he won't have to "know" quite so soon.

An alcoholic father is the reason you broke up with your boy friend because he didn't like sneaking around, but you couldn't bring a nice guy into a mess like that. It's feeling empty and cried-out every time you see him at school because you know you really love him.

A father is a person you can tell your troubles to, but an alcoholic father is a person you hide your problems from.

An alcoholic father is the man who gave your mother that big bruise on her right side.

He's the person your sister loathed so much that she ran away and got pregnant because he was already chasing her out of the house. And you loved her so much you wanted to kill him. And yet you have to love him because he's your parent, and you're so mixed up and miserable you want to die.

Finally, an alcoholic father is the man you told your girl friends was your step-father because you were ashamed when he started yelling at you in front of them. But while you're saying it, you're crying inside because you love him even when you hate him. And you hate yourself for being disloyal. . .

So what is an alcoholic father? He's the man who leaves you mad at the world, confused, but most of all—hurt. So Helen, what does a 15-year-old do when she has a problem like this?—MIXED UP 15.

Dear Mixed Up:

Your best help is in realizing you aren't alone. Children of lushes are often so beaten down with shame and guilty (about hating the person one is supposed to love) that they close out the world. And, in their loneliness, they sometimes blame parents for rejections they bring on themselves.

You might not have lost your boy friend had you told him frankly, "My father is ill. . ." Girl friends would not turn away, if you'd level with them. Your mother might face up to the situation, if you'd urge her to attend therapy sessions. (The phone book lists Alcoholics Anonymous where you can learn about family groups such as Al-Anon and Alateen.) Perhaps you should both visit the local alcoholism center. Above all, you must discuss the problem, not try to hide it! You must understand that your father is sick and in desperate need of help—that his case is not hopeless, nor is yours.

Please call A.A. today! You'll be amazed how the burden lightens when you share it with others. – H.

NEW YORK (AP) — Irwin Allen practiced his specialty, peering into man's future adventures, Monday night in an NBC "World Premiere" film feature called "City Beneath the Sea." It is a pilot for a future series.

Earlier Allen souffles have established the series-maker as a master of special effects. There was "Lost in Space" with an astronaut family gypsying around the Galaxy; "Land of Giants," about lost earthlings on a planet where everything including the inhabitants were 12 times the size of things on earth and "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," about a submarine of the future fighting an enormous array of enemies.

It was back to the ocean depths Monday to build a story around an underwater city called "Pacifica," where people are living and working in the year 2053. The special effects were remarkable. There were panoramic sights of a city with submarines threading their way gracefully among the structures, electronic gadgets flashing lights, nuclear warheads racing information toward the stars and a human "aquanoid" who could breathe underwater like a fish.

Regretfully, all the artful trick photography and pyrotechnics were the backdrop for a silly, cliche-ridden action story that could be—and has been—played out many times before on dry land.

Our hero is an admiral returning to the undersea city he helped build on special presidential assignment to remove all Ft. Knox gold to Pacifica vaults as a shield against fissionable H128, the most powerful material in the world, which must be stored there. Some bad guys wanted to steal the gold and the nuclear material. Naturally, they failed and our hero not only managed to turn them back singlehanded but deflected a planetoid racing toward earth.

It seemed too bad that producer-director-writer Allen could dream up such interesting background material but settled for such a pedestrian story.

Stuart Whitman, looking noble in spotless white Navy uniforms, played the hero as if he believed in him. Robert Wagner, disguised behind a large mustache, seemed to enjoy being a black-hearted, power-mad villain.

NBC, in a last-minute rearrangement of its schedule tonight, will make room for a discussion of President Nixon's State of the Union message by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

"The Don Knotts Show" will be pre-empted at 8 p.m. EST so NBC can start its "Tuesday Night Movie" early. Mansfield, beginning at 10, will be seen and heard for at least an hour.

Attorney May Turn Actor

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Attorney Melvin Belli says he is going to be tested for the title role in "The Godfather," movie version of Mario Puzo's book about the Mafia.

Belli said he would make the screen test this week in New York.

He already has a little acting experience—he and his son Caesar appeared in a sequence of the "Star Trek" show on television.

Belli was here to address the Oklahoma Press Association.

GLAZED APPLE PIE

- 1 (9-inch) baked pastry shell
- 2 (3-ounce) packages creamed cheese, softened
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1½ pounds apples (about 4 medium)
- 1 cup water
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon water
- ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

Prepare pastry shell. Mix together cream cheese, sugar and lemon rind until smooth and creamy. Spread cheese mixture evenly over bottom of pastry shell. Chill in refrigerator about ½ hour. Meanwhile, pare and cut each apple into about 8 wedges. Mix together water, sugar and lemon juice in large skillet. Bring to boil; reduce heat. Place apple wedges in syrup and simmer, gently turning and basting frequently, 8 to 10 minutes or until apples are tender but still hold their shape. Remove apple wedges, reserving syrup.

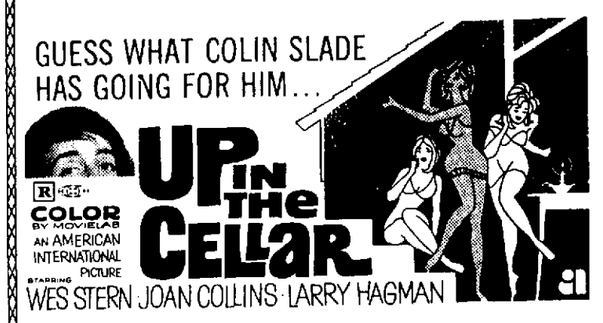

Arrange wedges on top of cheese layer. Mix together cornstarch, water and nutmeg; gradually stir into reserved hot syrup in skillet. Bring to boil, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute. Pour evenly over apples to form glaze. Chill at least 2 hours. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

Hope Teams Win Pair at Spring Hill

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

Using good rebounding and defensive effort last night, the Bobkittens and Kittycats took two games from Spring Hill by rather large margins.

Raising their record to 9-4, the Kittycats pounded their opponents, 40-28, with everyone seeing action.

After getting the tipoff, Hope built up an early, 10-0, lead on goals by Gigi Gladney and Karlene Coleman. However, only Spring Hill could hit before the quarter ended, thus moving the game into the second period with Hope leading, 10-2.

Jill Herring popped the net for two points at the outset of the second quarter, and then free throws by Gladney and a field goal by Coleman, forced Spring Hill into a timeout with 2:08 left in the half.

Immediately afterwards, Gladney hit a three point play, but only four more points were made, those by Spring Hill, as the Kittycats held a 21-9, halftime lead.

No one scored immediately at the start of the second half, until Gladney and Herring both connected for two points each.

Now, with the bench starting to empty and the clock only showing 1:44, Gladney and Cathy Griffin hit goals and the third period later ended with Hope holding on to a 15 point spread, 30-15.

Peggy Fuller opened up the last period scoring and less than a minute later Gail East sank a two pointer for a 34-15 lead.

Six more points by Griffin rounded out the scoring the last goal with 27 seconds left.

Gladney led Hope with 17 points, Griffin sank eight, and Coleman hit seven.

In the second game the, Bobkittens also hit an early lead and coasted on into a 42-25 victory for their seventh win against seven losses.

Gary Rhodes hit two early field goals and later, after Marshall Scott and Bud Martin both sank outside shots, the Kittens held an early 8-1 margin.

After a Spring Hill timeout Scott and Tim Hogan each hit a field goal as the quarter later ended, 12-5.

Taking the ball downcourt first, Hope moved ahead even farther as the Kittens used two baskets by Jimmy Smith and one by Martin for an 18-7 score, with 4:04 left in the half.

Eight more points by the Kittens to one by Spring Hill, gave Hope a 26-8, halftime margin.

Moving into the second half, Rhodes, Martin, and David Huddleston all quickly connected from the outside. However a cold streak could only get Hope four more points, two each by Hogan and Donny Hughes, as the third period ended, with Hope in full command, 36-13.

Now using the reserves, the Kittens only yielded three points in the quarter to win by 17.

With only 37 seconds played in the final stanza, Joey Galloway hit a pair of charity shots to add to the lead.

Hitting a long cold streak, the Kittens only managed four more points, all by Galloway.

Martin and Scott both had eight points, while Hogan, Galloway, and Rhodes all sank six.

Tonight the Bobcats and B-Bruins will journey to Ouachita for two games, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The Ladycats game was called off.

Marquette Takes Over Top Spot

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Marquette, Number One.

You expected somebody else at the top of the college basketball rankings?

The mercurial Midwesterners whistled by UCLA's fallen angels on the power of 22 first-place votes and a commanding block of 658 points to land the coveted role of No. 1 today.

Making it an easy slide for the Warriors was UCLA's first loss in 20 games, and only fifth in five seasons—an 89-82 blockbuster to sky-high Notre Dame Saturday.

The Warriors, meanwhile, struck down DePaul 73-51 with muscle and finesse for their 26th straight victory, and 52nd in a row at home.

A nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters handed the Bruins only six first-place ballots and a total of 594 points, actually more than their nation-topping total of 552 last week.

It was the first time out of the driver's seat for UCLA since winning the 1969-70 national championship and the voting almost sent the benumbed Bruins skittering to third as one ballot named them as No. 8.

Southern California, the "other" school in Los Angeles, reclaimed the No. 3 position with six first place ballots and 588 points after an idle week.

Notre Dame, despite its shenanigans Saturday and exhortations by Coach Johnny Dee that "we are No. 1," took two short hops from No. 9 to No. 7 to replace Western Kentucky, banking no first place tallies and 296 points.

Penn held onto fourth with 458 points after bombing Temple and Villanova for the Quakers' 15th straight victory this year.

Kansas knocked off Iowa State and Oklahoma State to keep the No. 5 position with 377 points and Jacksonville remained No. 6, flicking away Furman and Mercer to rope 309 points.

Tennessee remained No. 8 after beating Alabama; Utah State, which had the only other first-place vote, moved up from a 12th-place tie to No. 9 after beating Utah and Brigham Young, and South Carolina completed the Top Ten picture, moving up from No. 11 despite a week's layoff.

Western Kentucky, victimized by Murray State, tumbled five places to No. 12.

The Second Ten also included, No. 11 Kentucky; No. 13 Oregon; No. 14 LaSalle; 15th-rated Virginia; 16th-ranked Villanova; No. 17 Duquesne; No. 18 Illinois, No. 19 Murray State and 20th-ranked North Carolina.

Duquesne, Illinois and Murray State were the week's new additions to the Top Twenty, replacing dropouts St. Bonaventure, No. 10 last week; Fordham, No. 17, and Indiana, No. 18

Here are the Top Twenty college basketball teams with first-place votes in parentheses and total points on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8 etc.

1.	Marquette (22)	658
2.	UCLA (6)	594

Saints, Oilers Swap Four Players

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New orleans Saints traded defensive tackle Dave Rowe and wide receiver Ken Burrough to the Houston Oilers Monday in exchange for running back Hoyle Granger, a second-round draft choice and two linemen.

Coming to the Saints along with Granger are offensive tackle Terry Stoepel and defensive end Charlie Blossom.

It was the second trade by the Saints in three days. Starting quarterback Billy Kilmer was traded to Washington Saturday for linebacker Tom Roussel and fourth and eight-round draft choices.

The Saints also announced Monday that offensive tackle Errol Lindon was placed on waivers.

By virtue of the trade with Houston, the Saints will have the second choice and the 31st choice in the player draft Thursday.

LSU Upsets 8th Ranked Tennessee

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pistol Pete Maravich is long gone but Louisiana State isn't exactly in mourning.

Maravich, college basketball's alltime scoring king and the leading point man in the nation for three straight seasons, has graduated to the pros and you'd think the loss of so potent a shooter would leave LSU crippled.

But the Bayou Tigers are holding up quite nicely under the strain, thank you. In fact, they whipped eighth-ranked Tennessee 80-70 in a Southeastern Conference upset Monday night that knocked the Vols out of first place in the SEC.

Bill Newton led LSU with 27 points and Nelson Isley added 23 for the Tigers, who shot 60 per cent from the field and ran their season's record to 8-5 and 4-2 in the conference. Tennessee is 12-3 and 5-2 in SEC play.

Kentucky, No. 11 in the nation, moved into first place in the SEC with an 86-73 victory over Alabama. The Wildcats, 12-3 for the season and 6-1 in conference play, shot 56 per cent from the field and were led by Mike Casey and Tom Parker, who had 17 points apiece. Casey sat out the final seven minutes with a badly sprained ankle.

Elsewhere in the SEC Monday night, Johnny Neumann, who succeeded Maravich as the nation's top scorer, fired 35 points for Mississippi but the Rebs bowed to Florida's balanced attack, 106-86.

Tony Miller led Florida with 28 points as all five Gator starters hit double figures. Neumann's output was seven points below his average of 42.

Jacksonville used towering Artis Gilmore and Pembrook Burrows to control the backboards and the sixth-ranked Dolphins wore down scrappy Southern Alabama 91-76.

Gilmore, who is 7-foot-2, grabbed 19 rebounds and scored 15 points, one more point than Vaughn Wedeking, Ernie Fleming and Burrows had for Jacksonville. Andy Denny led the losers with 22 points.

Jim McDaniels, 7-0, poured in 31 points and Western Kentucky, No. 12, walloped Austin Peay 117-72. The Hilltoppers shot 55 per cent from the field compared to Austin Peay's 28 per cent, and led 61-33 at halftime.

Penn State ran off 11 straight points late in the first half and nine in a row after the intermission to whip Princeton 70-62. Chuck Christ led the Nittany Lions with 23 points and 14 rebounds.

Niagara discarded its zone defense in the second half and came from behind to whip DePaul 83-72. The Purple Eagles were five points behind at the half when they shifted to a man-to-man defense and forced DePaul to shoot from outside.

Marshall Wingate, who had 24, led Niagara's rally. Ed Goody had 34 for the losers.

Mississippi State nipped Georgia in overtime 67-66 with Donnie Black dropping in six straight pressure foul shots in the extra period to clinch the victory. Black, whose steal and basket had tied the game in regulation time, cooly sank his free throws in the final 90 seconds to win it.

Terry Snider's 26 points led Kansas State to a 78-70 victory over Oklahoma, extending the Sooner's losing streak at Manhattan, Kan. to 22 games. Dennis Hall set a K-State rebounding record with 27 recoveries to key the victory.

Houston ran its record to 15-3 and captured its eighth straight home court victory by knocking off Centenary 80-69. Poo Welch had 26 points and Dwight Davis 22 as the Cougars ran their two-season home court winning string to 25 games.

Doctor Has Proved He Is Winner

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Less than a year ago, Dr. Delano Meriwether read a book on track and after watching meets on television decided "I can beat those guys."

What the good doctor was implying was that he, a 27-year-old hematologist, without any training or background in track, could go out and beat such Olympic standouts as Mel Pender and Charlie Greene and other world-calibre sprinters.

And the amazing Dr. Meriwether did just that.

After a few outdoor races he re-read the book titled Sports Illustrated Book of Track and Field: Running Events, written by Jim Dunaway, and with his wife, drove the 20 miles from his Baltimore home to the Washington CYO meet at the Cole Field House in Maryland for his indoor debut.

A stranger to the indoor track scene he admitted, "I was worried and felt sort of out of place but the carnival scene relaxed me and the crowd was warm." Outdoors he had run a best run of 9.4 seconds the 100 yards and 21.1 for 220 yards.

He reported for the CYO 60-yard dash heat and came in second but still none of the other runners knew who he was except some noticed his odd attire which included yellow swim trunks, a white hospital shirt and matching yellow and white striped suspenders.

One of the competitors figured he was a freshman from a local school with his outfit. Meriwether says he wears the getup "purely for gimmickry. I figure I'm out there to entertain people and I decided this would be my official outfit and I won't change it."

In the final, Meriwether, an admitted poor starter, was left at the blocks and already two steps behind in the 60-yard dash. But once he started he went like a jet and wound up winning by a photo over Pender.

"I was gone," Pender recalled. "But midway in the race he caught me and believe me he was flying. His start is awful but with a little coaching he could be outstanding."

Two weeks ago Meriwether went to the Sunkist Games in Los Angeles and again, despite his poor start, finished a flying second to Madagascar's Jean-Louis Ravelomananeso, each caught in 6.1 for the 60.

In his last race, a 50-yard sprint Saturday in Philadelphia, Meriwether finished fifth in a six-man field. The race was won by Pender in 5.3.

Still it is amazing that Meriwether, without a coach, has done this well.

"The indoor meets are really a bit short for me because of my starting problems but I need all the experience I can get," said Meriwether a graduate of Michigan State and the first Negro ever admitted to the Duke Medical School.

"I think the 100 or 220-yard dash would be my best events," he added.

"He'll be rougher in the longer races," Pender agreed. "If he can get some proper coaching I'd say he could be one of our best sprinters. Right now he's a good runner and a fine gentlemen. He's an asset to the sport."

The only running the personable doctor had done previously, "was just sort of racing kids down the block when I was a kid in Charleston", he said. "My high school didn't have a team and at Michigan State (where he graduated pre-med school in three years) there just wasn't any time."

Meriwether's schedule at the Baltimore Cancer Research Center, where he works at a leukemia cure, has not interfered with his running.

"I usually work from 8:30 in the morning till about 7 with the weekends off. If I have a meet on a Friday, I make up the day working Sunday. The people at the hospital are aware of my running, and I guess I'm sort of a celebrity with them."

Fairview Dropped Out of Top 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Undefeated Little Rock Horace Mann, with an impressive string of 15 victories, continued its hold on the top spot in The Associated Press high school basketball poll this week.

Mann received 10 of 12 first place votes from a panel of sportswriters and sports broadcasters from around the state.

Hot Springs moved up from third to second this week, followed by Fort Smith Northside and Tuckerman. Harrison is fifth and Blytheville holds down the No. 6 spot.

Little Rock McClellan, ranked second last week, dropped to seventh after being defeated by Little Rock Central and Helena.

Cave City moved up from ninth to eighth and North Little Rock, ranked seventh last week, dropped to ninth.

Rogers moved into the 10th spot, replacing Camden Fairview. Fairview lost to Harrison and Hope last week.

Here are the results of the poll with first place votes and team records in parenthesis and total points at right:

1.	Horace Mann (10) (15-0)	117
2.	Hot Springs (14-1)	99
3.	FS Northside (12-1)	93
4.	Tuckerman (1) (24-0)	75
5.	Harrison (22-1)	73
6.	Blytheville (1) (17-2)	60
7.	LR McClellan (13-3)	49
8.	Cave City (25-1)	33
9.	North Little Rock (11-4)	21
10.	Rogers (14-1)	13

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Camden Fairview, Deaf School, Helena, Jonesboro, LR Central, Stamps, Stephens, Westside, White Hall and Wynne.

Killer Track Taking Toll of Bobsledders

CERVINIA, Italy (AP) -- The world's top bobsledeers moved into their second day of official trials today as the killer Blue Lake track in this Italian alpine resort continued to deplete their ranks.

The string of accidents on the 1,540-meter course jumped to 21 Monday with four more in the first day of trials for the four-man crews.

The competition for the larger sleds opened the same way as it for the small ones. Under the limelight were the track, its victims, and the weather.

The Italians, who swept the first two placings in the two-man, had the two best times in the four.

West Germans Herbert Pitka and Wolfgang Zimmerer, and a surprising and calm Mo Hammond of Britain were the closest competitors.

The big question, however, was how many teams would get to the championship Saturday and Sunday. Many teams had been forced to line their third or fourth teams for the four-man, as their best drivers had been knocked out by accidents the week before.

The weather, which forced cancellation of the second day of the two-man event, was also causing problems to the organizers. Fog, snow and wind combined to ruin what would have otherwise been excellent cold for bobsledding.

Hoak Signs With the Steelers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dick Hoak signed a contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers 10 years ago and received a $1,500 bonus as the club's seventh draft choice.

"When I started it was a game," Hoak said Monday, announcing his retirement from pro football. "It isn't as much fun anymore. That's one of the reasons I'm quitting."

The 31-year-old running back spent most of last season on the bench and near the end of the season suffered two head injuries. He carried the ball only 40 times, lowest of his career.

Hoak is the second all-time Steeler rusher with 3,965 yards in 1,132 attempts, an average of 3.5 yards a carry, second only to Johny Henry Johnson who gained 4,383 yards in his career.

Haywood Is Under Intense Pressure

SEATTLE (AP) — Spencer Haywood says his controversial move from the Denver Rockets to the Seattle SuperSonics has put him under intense pressure.

"I haven't adjusted to the pressure yet," the 6-foot-9 maverick said Monday. "I have this feeling that somebody might might come up to me and say 'That's it — that's the end of the game'."

Haywood said the impending federal court decision on his future with the National Basketball Association looms over him.

"Also, I had to get back into shape quickly," the former American Basketball Association star said. "People were waiting to see me do bad, so I had to push myself no matter how bad I felt."

Haywood said he wants to find his niche on the Seattle team and settle into it. He said he wants to fit into the offense rather than take it over.

Haywood said he believes he disrupted the team unity — "being together," he calls it — when he signed the highly disputed contract with the Sonics.

"I think in another week or so we'll have things really together," he said. "We're practicing more because of my situation."

Haywood said he thinks his performance as a Sonic has been "lousy." He has scored 30 points in each of the last two Sonics games, but that doesn't satisfy him.

"I didn't play winning basketball," he said Monday after the Philadelphia 76ers had swamped Seattle 145-119. "I didn't do the things that help my team."

That game, like all the others since his acquisition, was protested, but Haywood said he sees the challenges as legalities and not as expressions of the opposing players.

Typical Boston Celtics Game— a Thriller

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a typical Boston Celtics' finish—a thriller. But it was staged by, of all people, the Cleveland Cavaliers, and it was pulled off against the Celtics.

Dave Sorenson's jump shot from the corner at the buzzer gave the Cavaliers a 117-116 victory over the visiting Celtics Monday night in a National Basketball Association game.

With Cleveland trailing 116-115 with 30 seconds left, the Cavaliers' Bobby Washington knocked the ball from the hands of Boston's John Havlicek, then kept it from going out of bounds by batting it to teammate John Johnson.

Johnson took a shot that was partially blocked, and Sorenson picked up the ball and fired in the winning goal. Bobby Smith of Cleveland led the scoring with 21 points and Johnson added 27. Havlicek scored 29.

In the only other NBA game, San Diego snapped a 10-game losing streak with a 114-106 victory over Buffalo on the West Coast. The Rockets overcame a 62-53 halftime deficit.

Stu Lantz, who topped San Diego with 37 points, scored six points in the last two minutes to help break the Braves' three-game winning skein.

Bob Kauffman was high for Buffalo with 26 points.

Wilbert, Steve and Jimmy Jones sparked a late Memphis drive that brought the Pros a 115-107 American Basketball Association victory over the Carolina Cougars at Sikestown, Mo.

Steve Jones' 23 points topped the Jones boys, who totalled 66 points, and also was high for his club. Larry Miller led Carolina with 25.

Notes From the Pro Golf Tourney Trail

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail:

Gene Ferrell is a stocky, 28-year-old from Mobile, Ala. and one of the few left-handers on the tour.

"I don't get much of a gallery," said Ferrell, in his third year on the circuit and still looking for victory No. 1, "but I drag a lot of the freaks around with me.

"The galleries get pretty confused about me. They see a left-hander hit a good shot into the green and they don't know whether to applaud or look sick."

Ferrell credits New Zealand's Bob Charles with help in his career. The dour, 34-year-old Charles, a former British Open champion, generally is regarded as the world's premier left-handed player.

"It's a matter of equipment," Ferrell said. "Until Charles came along, you just couldn't get left-handed clubs. The pros would try to turn a left-hander around so they could sell him clubs.

"It's not the same now. Left-handed equipment isn't so hard to get and you're seeing a lot more left-handed players."

A new travel service, a commercial venture, has come into being for the touring pros. It's a twice, or three-times a week charter service with direct flights from one tournament site to the next.

Doug Sanders was talking about the $26,000 check he received for winning the Bahama Islands Open, final stop on the 1970 tour.

"They gave me this big, heavy cardboard thing, about a foot high and two feet long, with palm trees drawn on it and all," he said.

"I took it back to Houston, left it around the house for a while and thought I'd have it framed. I kept expecting to get the regular check in the mail, but it never came. So I took this big thing down to the bank and asked the man if it's any good.

"He said, 'I'll only give you $26,000 for it.'"

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "My parents knocked the word can't out of my life. They taught me to compete."

So said 250-pound Tom Dempsey, who refused to let half a kicking foot and a stub for a right hand keep him from becoming a place kicking star in the National Football League.

Dempsey was honored Monday night with the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association's unique aware of Most Courageous Athlete of the year (1970).

Dempsey, who kicks for the New Orleans Saints, was joined on the dias by Bobby Orr of the National Hockey League's Boston Bruins, feted as Professional Athlete of 1970, and Notre Dame's Joe Theismann, saluted as the association's outstanding Amateur Athlete of last year.

It was the hulking Dempsey, however, who stole the show. He recalled his first field goal try as a high school kid.

"I just walked up and kicked it. It shocked me the way it took off. I thought, maybe I've got something here."

He sure did. His determination to overcome the foot and hand birth defects was climaxed last season when in the final two seconds of the game against the Detroit Lions he booted a record 63-yard field goal. It gave the Saints a 19-17 miracle victory over the Lions.

Dempsey quoted the Lions' great tackle, Alex Karras, as saying, "When you kick from your 37-yard line you're supposed to kick it to the nearest goal not the furthest."

Dempsey started kicking field goal with only a sock covered by tape. Later, he graduated to a shoe. Now he wears a specially made $200 shoe he helped design. The shoe was approved by NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle and survived a protest by the Dallas Cowboys' Tex Schramm last season.

The 6-foot-1 Dempsey remembered that his Little League baseball coach used to make a place on the team for the handicapped kid. "Let him play, he tries hard, they said. Then my high school coach forced me to be a better athlete. You feel sorry for yourself, don't you, he goaded me.' He challenged me to make a place for myself on the team." Dempsey responded by making the all-conference high school team as a defensive tackle. Later, he tossed the shot 50 feet.

Dempsey has become an image to handicapped youngsters around the world. He's received 4,500 letters since that fabulous kick against Detroit. He answers them all, including a picture. He's chairman of the Louisiana State Easter Seal program.

Nat'l 'Pay Your Bills Week' Feb. 1-5

MINNEASPOLIS, MINN.— Webb Laseter, a member of the American Collectors Association, announced today that the association will sponsor its National "Pay Your Bills" Week, February 1-5, 1971. ACA is an international organization of some 2600 bonded collection agencies.

The annual "Pay Your Bills" Week is a public service program designed to help educate consumers — who annually buy 123 billion dollars worth of merchandise on credit — in the wise use of money and credit.

"We would like to urge people to spend wisely and use credit with caution." Laseter said. "However, we realize that people do find themselves unable to make payments because of loss of income, medical expenses and the like. If this happens, they should call their creditors, explain the circumstances, and arrange a new payment schedule."

National "Pay Your Bills" Week is a reminder to consumers to put themselves on a workable budget and get rid of the money-trouble blues. Consumers who are having trouble managing their money should not hesitate to ask credit grantors and bill collectors for help, Laseter said.

Mr. Laseter is Manager of Credit Bureau of Hempstead Co. in Hope.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants' baseball team had a net loss of $798,000 in 1970, according to the annual report of the National Exhibition Co., which operates the club.

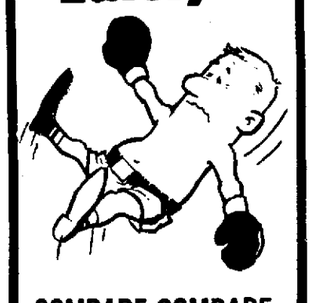

However, a spokesman for the Giants said Monday that the $798,000 was a "paper loss' figure, not taking into account some income, such as payments from recent expansion teams in the National League.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri will play Stanford in Columbia Sept. 11 to fill out an 11-game football schedule this fall.

It will be the Tigers' first meeting with the Rose Bowl champions, who defeated Ohio State 27-17 three weeks ago.

Benjamin is a Hebrew name meaning "son of the right hand."

Mrs. Kennedy Visits Indians

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Ethel Kennedy, widow of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, says she inspected two San Diego County Indian reservations to see whether she could help "financially and technically."

Mrs. Kennedy was accompanied on a weekend tour of community action projects at the Pala and Rincon reservations by two Robert F. Kennedy Foundation fellowship winners.

After visiting an Indian dental clinic in Pauma Valley, Mrs. Kennedy attended a conference here of the California Rural Indian Health Program.

Liz Taylor to Be Grandmother

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Movie star Elizabeth Taylor, who is 39, and Mrs. Lee Breitling of Portland are expectant grandmothers.

Mrs. Breitling's daughter, Beth Clutter, married the film star's son, Michael Wilding, last October in London.

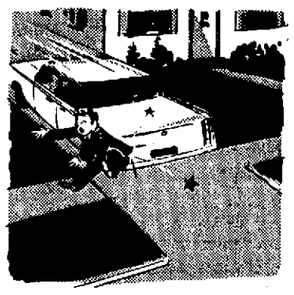

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Pampered Pedestrians

Trudging absentmindedly along the sidewalk, George failed to notice a car backing down a driveway. Result: he stepped in the path of the car and was injured. In short order he sued the motorist for damages, blaming him for driving across a sidewalk without looking.

But at the trial, the motorist said:

"I wasn't looking, but neither was he. If I was negligent, he was too."

However, the court found no negligence on George's part and granted his claim. The judge said:

"It is the common experience of tired humanity to become immersed in thought and oblivious to one's surroundings, when travelling in a place of known safety. Therein lies no want of ordinary care."

Not every court would be so tolerant of a pedestrian's daydreaming. But it is true that the law does, by and large, look kindly on the pedestrian. It does not expect the same level of alertness from him as it demands from the motorist.

Nor are motorists the only ones who must keep a lookout for the pedestrian's safety. For example:

A baseball team was held liable when a home run cleared a low fence and struck a passing pedestrian on the head. And the owner of a building was held liable when a loose brick fell out of the parapet and landed on a passerby.

Still, even a pedestrian may sometimes be found guilty of negligence. A woman shopper, walking home, fell down hard when her heel caught in a large crack in the sidewalk. Claiming compensation from the city, she charged that the sidewalk had been left in an unsafe condition.

But she also admitted that she had seen the crack in time to step over it. To the court, this meant that she had simply misjudged the length of her step. Dismissing the case, the judge said she had no one to blame but herself.

New Radiation Restrictions Not Needed

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government advisory group says a new study shows no need for tightening radiation-protection standards, despite contentions by some experts that stricter regulations are needed to prevent an increase in cancer.

However, the National Council on Radiation Protection and Measurements, in a report today, recommended reducing allowable exposure levels for pregnant women.

The council said its 10-year study "has confirmed the validity of most of the basic radiation protection criteria presently used by governmental agencies to regulate the exposure of the population and of radiation workers."

The council's findings contrast with recommendations of Dr. John F. Gofman and Dr. Arthur R. Tamplin who say that unless present standards are strengthened at least tenfold, the number of cancer cases in the United States could be increased by 16,000 a year.

Gofman and Tamplin are employed at the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory at the University of California at Livermore. The Atomic Energy Commission, which operates the lab, has challenged repeatedly the two scientists' views on the cancer threat.

Dr. Lauriston S. Taylor, president of the national council, said in a statement separate from the report: "Our review of the current knowledge of biological effects of radiation exposure provides no basis for any drastic reductions in the recommended exposure levels despite the current urgings of a few critics."

He mentioned no names.

The council's report on exposure standards was its first on the subject since 1954, and today's document reaffirmed the guidelines adopted at that time.

The council's recommendations are used by AEC, the Public Health Service and by other federal and private groups in formulating their own regulations for protection against radiation.

The council recommended retaining the yearly dose limit of .17 rem per person, averaged over the entire population. This would be the equivalent of radiation absorbed from two chest x-rays a year.

Careful of Salt Intake; Excess Causes Problems

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I do not use much salt, only while cooking vegetables. The rest of my family adds more at the table. Would it be possible to for you to comment in your column on the effects of salt?

Dear Reader—With salt, like other things, there is an optimal amount. Only under unusual circumstances is it necessary to add salt to the diet to prevent medical problems.

The water in the body contains about the same amount of salt as sea water and it is essential to maintain about that much salt in the body. The food we eat contains a lot of sodium, which is the important element of salt. In fact, it is very hard to construct a good diet which is low in sodium or salt.

Meat, milk and vegetables all contain some sodium and even city water often contains more sodium than is allowable if a person really needs to restrict sodium. The normal kidney is able to conserve sodium if the body needs it and filters out water with little salt in it.

The most common reason for needing salt added to the diet is excessive sweating, for example, from heavy manual labor or exercise in the heat. Sometimes salt pills are advisable in these circumstances. Other than this, the big problem with salt is that people may use too much.

In some people, excess salt contributes to high blood pressure. For awhile some investigators thought there was something magic to rice and rice diets became very popular in treating high blood pressure. It was soon learned that the magic in rice was the absence of sodium. A salt-restricted diet is still a good treatment for high blood pressure, particularly if there is associated accumulation of fluid. In fact, some of the medicines we give people for high blood pressure act in part by causing the kidney to eliminate excess sodium.

Some authorities have suggested that the excess use of salt, so characteristic of Americans, is related to developing fatty deposits in the arteries but this is only theoretical at the moment.

Of course, people with heart failure causing accumulation of fluid, liver disease or kidney disease must be particularly careful not to eat much salt. While medicine can help prevent the accumulation of salt and water, the role of salt restriction is still important.

Most healthy people can use a moderate amount of salt and have no ill effects from it.

You are not missing anything you need for health by not adding a lot of salt to your food and hopefully the rest of your family is not doing too much harm to themselves, but your practice is more healthy.

We don't think much of North's jump to three no-trump but we can't fault South for jumping right to six spades.

West opened the king of diamonds. South plunked dummy's ace of diamonds on the king, remarking, "No better place for it." In so doing he had succeeded with one of the rarest coups in bridge. This coup requires the play of the ace on the king, the specific remark and the loss of an important contract as a result.

It is easy to see that South can't use that ace at trick one and make his contract. The discard from his hand does him no good and while he can take the heart finesse it is going to lose.

If South had been using his brain instead of his mouth he would have found the winning line of play. This winning line is to play low from dummy and ruff the diamond. Then South plays out three rounds of trumps and leads his king of clubs.

West will be smart enough to duck and South will continue with the 10. If West ducks this lead, South has avoided the loss of a club trick and can lose one heart trick only, but West will undoubtedly play the ace of clubs this time.

South will have lost one trick, but West will be on lead and will be forced to let dummy gain the lead. If he leads a diamond or club South will get one heart discard on the diamond ace and three more on clubs. If he leads a low heart South will play dummy's jack. If he leads the king of hearts South will have tricks to burn.

Rules Women Rights to Individualism

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women seeking equal job opportunities with men have won a Supreme Court victory—the right to be treated as individuals.

Under Monday's unanimous opinion, an employer who has men with young children on the payroll cannot automatically refuse to hire women with preschoolers at home.

From now on, the employer will have to show, case by case, why the mother's domestic situation will keep her from doing an adequate job. If he can't, her application can't be rejected simply because she's a woman.

The ruling came on the first test of the provision of the 1964 Federal Civil Rights Act that guarantees women protection against job discrimination.

Jack Greenberg, director counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, said afterward his lawyers will move immediately to enforce the decision on behalf of Ida Phillips against Martin Marietta Corp.

The Legal Defense Fund and the Justice Department had brought the case to the court in a bid to safeguard the job rights of the more than 4 million women who are in the job market and have young children at home.

Many of these women are black. About one-third are either the sole support of their households or have husbands with incomes below $5,000 a year.

not appear to be a complete victory, as Justice Thurgood Marshall suggested in a concurring opinion.

The reason for his reservation: The court also indicated that a woman with children at home somehow may be less likely than a man with children to do the job well.

Besides, the court said, under the 1964 law such a woman could be turned down.

Marshall said he did not quarrel with the right of employers to have all workers provide for the care of their children so that their work is not affected. But such requirements, he said, must apply to men and women equally.

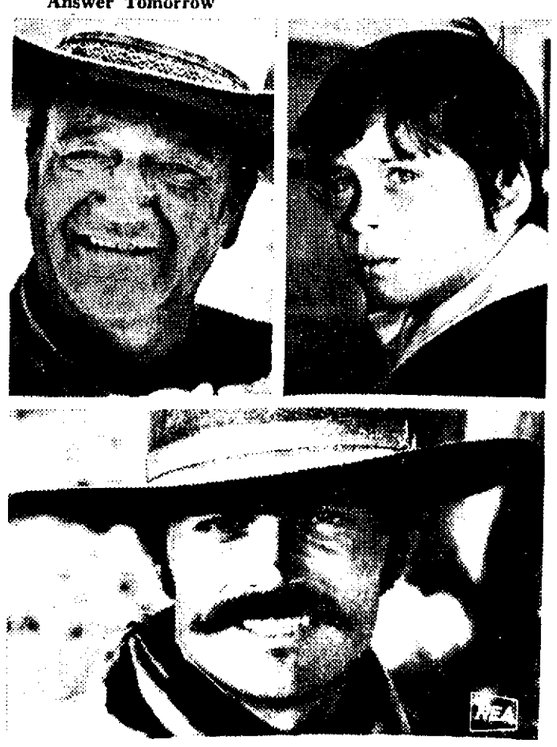

Marshall said he was afraid "the court has fallen into the trap of assuming that the Act permits ancient canards about the proper role of women to be a basis for discrimination."

In this respect, the fight for equal job rights for women is not over.

The decision also did not settle the question whether the Martin Marietta Corp. violated the law when a receptionist at the Orlando, Fla., plant turned away Mrs. Phillips, mother of seven young children.

The record evidently was too skimpy to suit the justices. They sent the case back to Florida where additional evidence may be taken—or where the parties could get together on a settlement.

Counting chickens before they've hatched is ideal training for selling underwater real estate.

Eight-year-old John Ethan, top right, will play Wayne's grandson, while Patrick, 31, bottom, will keep his real-life family role. Another son, Michael, 36, will remain behind the scenes as producer of the film, a Western, naturally.

QUICK QUIZ

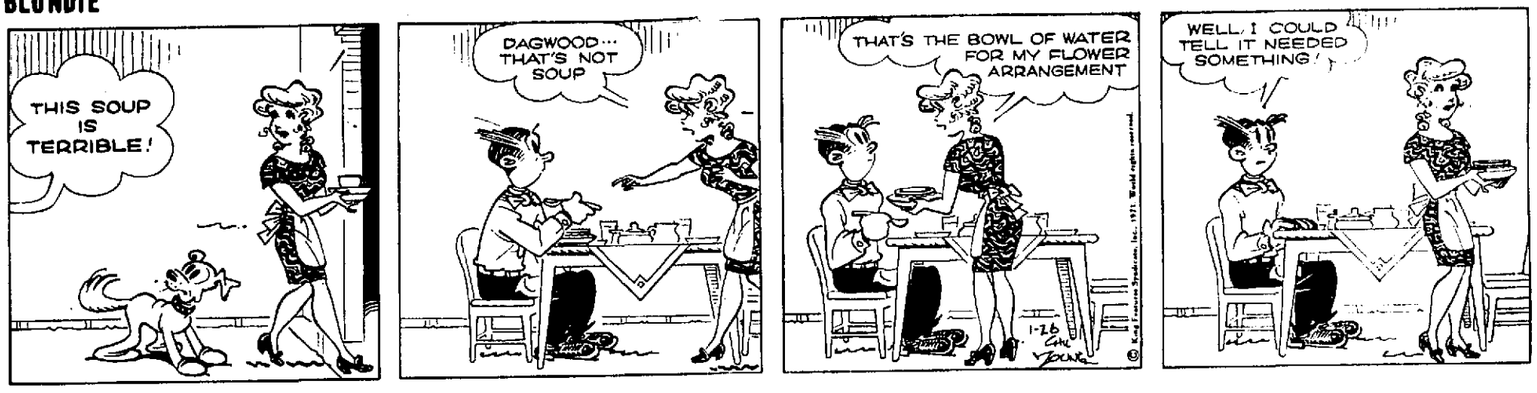

Q—Is any species of parrot native to the United States?

A—Yes, the Carolina parakeet, which once ranged over much of the southern United States. It is now practically extinct.

Q—What state is called the "Flickertail State"?

A—This is one of the nicknames of North Dakota, because of the many flickertail ground squirrels that live in the central part of the state.

Says Defective Parts Were Shipped Back

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — FBI agent Vincent H. Lammers testified Monday that defective parts manufactured by Selb Manufacturing Co. of Walnut Ridge for the F111 warplane that were originally rejected by General Dynamics Corp. in 1968 were shipped back to the firm in 1969.

Lammers said that records obtained from Selb showed that four wing pivot support plates for the airplane were rejected by General Dynamics, the prime contractor for the swing-wing plane, in August and September of 1968. He said that in June 1969 the parts were shipped back to General Dynamics and the shipping papers contained the phrase, "Attention Mr. N. L. Johnson and J. L. Townley."

Townley, of Hurst, Tex., a former quality assistant supervisor at General Dynamics is on trial in U.S. District Court at Little Rock on charges of conspiring to conceal defective F111 parts manufactured by Selb.

Gaylon Piercy, former inspector for Aircraft Engineering Corp. of Pocahontas, a subsidiary of Selb, testified Monday that he had been ordered to change serial numbers on parts manufactured by Selb.

Previous testimony has indicated unauthorized welding was performed on defective parts so they could pass inspection.

Seven persons are charged with conspiring to conceal the defective parts, but Townley is the only one on trial. The others, all employes of General Dynamics and Selb, will be tried later.

Selb made parts for the F111 under a subcontract with General Dynamics. They were manufactured at Selb's plant in Walnut Ridge, the Aircraft Engineering plant and Blades Manufacturing Co. of Rector, another Selb subsidiary.

Few Willing to Testify in Bomb Probe

By PAT KEITH
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A federal grand jury sifting evidence in an alleged bomb-kidnap plot reconvenes today, but whether it would find any witnesses willing to testify was uncertain.

The jury is looking into aspects of a case involving three Roman Catholic priests, a former priest, a nun and a Pakistani graduate student indicted on charges of plotting to kidnap President Nixon's foreign affairs adviser, Henry Kissinger, and blow up the heating systems in five federal buildings on Feb. 22.

Five witnesses still under subpoena included Sister Jogues Egan, 52, New York City, who was granted immunity Monday by U.S. Dist. Court Judge R. Dixon Herman and directed to testify. Her attorney said she might still refuse. None of the others would say whether they planned to testify.

Sister Jogues invoked the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination Jan. 15.

Jack Levine, attorney for Sister Jogues contended that the grant of immunity might leave her in jeopardy because a grand jury might corroborate her testimony through another source and indict her.

Herman did not rule on the constitutionality of the immunity law but his order for the nun to testify had the effect of turning back the attorney's plea. The judge also told Levine that if Sister Jogues was indicted, "that might be the time to test the law."

Sister Jogues is one of seven listed as coconspirators, but not defendants, in the bomb-kidnap case.

Indicted by the grand jury Jan. 12 were the Rev. Philip Berrigan, 47, now serving a sentence at Danbury, Conn., for destroying draft records; Eqbal Ahmad, 40, a Pakistani graduate student; the Revs. Neil McLaughlin, 30, and Joseph Wonderoth, 35, and Anthony Scoblick, 30, a former priest, all of Baltimore; and Sister Elizabeth McAlister, 31, South Orange, N.J.

Bill to Pay Out of State Hospitals

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Senate received Monday a bill to appropriate $300,000 in each of the next two fiscal years to pay out-of-state hospitals for services rendered to indigent residents of Arkansas.

The measure was one of 22 bills introduced by the Joint Budget Committee.

Among the committee's bills was one to provide salaries for a staff of eight for the governor's mansion for the remainder of the fiscal year.

The committee also submitted a bill to appropriate public relations funds for six state constitutional offices and the speaker of the House of Representatives.

The appropriations for the constitutional offices would be $4,500 in each of the next two fiscal years, the same amount appropriated for the current fiscal year.

The appropriation for the House speaker, however, would be increased from $2,400 each fiscal year to $3,600.

Three bills would appropriate a total of $10,420,000 in each of the next two fiscal years for the state to use in a variety of federal-aid programs.

Sen. W. K. Ingram of West Memphis introduced a bill to permit municipal court clerks to retire with a pension equal to one-half the salary at the time of retirement after 20 years of service.

Sen. Bob Douglas of Texarkana introduced a measure that would entitle a defendant to attorney fees and court costs reimbursement if he was successful, in a lawsuit filed against him by plaintiffs represented by attorneys whose fees were paid by a tax-free, nonprofit foundation, corporation or association.

Sen. John F. Gibson of Dermott introduced a concurrent resolution that would ask the Commission on Coordination of Higher Educational Finance to determine whether any degree programs at state colleges and universities should be eliminated.

Gibson also introduced a bill that would require debt service tax millage collected in any school district for a bond issue be used exclusively for that service.

Sen. John F. Bearden Jr. of Leachville introduced a bill to require that a county or city governing body shall negotiate an agreement with any school district to compensate the district for tax money lost through development of an industry on property in the district under the provisions of Amendment 49 to the state Constitution or Act 9 of 1960.

Sen. W. D. Moore Jr. of El Dorado introduced a bill to bring public school employes under workmen's compensation coverage. He said he would have another proposal to extend coverage to city and county employes.

Introduced in the House was a compromise bill establishing the formula by which state school aid would be distributed to the public schools for teacher salaries and operations.

Under the bill, the additional state funds for public schools would be distributed in such a way that no district would get more than 2½ times per teacher for salary increases than would be available to the school district receiving the lowest per teacher allotment.

No district would receive more than three times the allotment per teacher for operations of the district than the district receiving the least amount.

Rep. Ode Maddox of Oden introduced the administration's bill to establish a presidential primary in Arkansas and provide for the popular election of 80 per cent of the state's delegates to national political conventions.

He and Miss Lange, who has two children by a previous marriage, have been married six years.

Bumpers Sees Federal Aid for His Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers, expressing confidence that his proposal to reorganize state government would be approved by the legislature, said Monday that it was probable that federal funds would be available to help pay the cost of implementing the reorganization.

Bumpers, speaking with newsmen at an impromptu news conference, however, did not make clear how much the reorganization would cost, how much money would be available from the federal government, or for exactly what the funds could be used.

He did say that members of his staff had discussed the possibility of obtaining federal funds with officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and that he had been assured funds would be made available after an application was made.

The governor also disclosed that he hoped to appear before a joint session of the legislature next Tuesday, but he declined to say if he would propose any revenue-sharing measures then. He said last Thursday he wanted to wait until after the legislature took action on his reorganization plan, which he estimated would be about 10 days.

Bumpers also spoke about the resignations of Welfare Commissioner Len Blaylock and Ray Cooper, executive director of the state Parks, Recreation and Travel Commission.

The governor said he was sorry that Blaylock had resigned and that he had no one in mind to succeed the welfare commissioner. He said that when Cooper had been asked to resign, it had been done with no one in mind to assume the position.

World's Largest Communications Satellite Up

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The world's largest communications satellite zipped around the earth on a great elliptical path today as a ground station prepared to send a signal to lock it in stationary orbit high above the Atlantic Ocean.

The first in a series of Intelsat 4 satellites was launched from Cape Kennedy by an Atlas-Centaur rocket Monday night and achieved a preliminary orbit 165 to 22,700 miles high.

About 9 a.m. EST Wednesday, a ground station at Andover, Maine, is to send a signal to fire a small onboard motor to kick the 3,094-pound payload into stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the equator.

At this outpost it will serve as a space relay point for telephone, television, radio and other commercial communications signals to and from North and South America, Europe and Africa.

This is the first of eight such satellites planned by the 77-nation International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium. Two other launches in 1971 are to position payloads over the Pacific and Indian oceans to form a global network.

Each satellite can handle 9,000 simultaneous phone calls or 12 color television transmissions. This compares with 1,200 phone calls and four TV transmissions with the present Intelsat 3 series, five of which are in operation.

Another new feature of Intelsat 4 is a set of steerable antennas which can direct spot beams at selected areas. For example, one spot beam could be aimed at the Eastern United States and the other focused on Western Europe, providing those high traffic areas with maximum capacity when necessary.
